PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

I work with information that has to be right.

In my current role, I support the registration of non-citizens in Ghana, where I collect and verify identity information, process records in a national database, review supporting documents and assist clients throughout the registration process. The work requires careful attention to detail, confidentiality and consistent adherence to established procedures.

I also have experience providing administrative and document support to clients, managing multiple requests and deadlines while keeping information organized and accurate. I am comfortable working with Microsoft Office, Excel, Google Workspace and digital database systems, and I work well independently when accuracy and reliable recordkeeping are essential.
